

Make your move!

“Instead of sitting around waiting, make a move and feel your way across the river.”

It was something of a eureka moment for Mike, a young graduate exploring career opportunities that would allow him to express his Christian faith. We had been meeting for several weeks to pray over his work. In the end, he decided to acknowledge that his service as a videographer was his mission. He would do it to the best of his ability until the Lord told him otherwise. He would stay alert to needs in his marketplace, wading into the water one step at a time.

Many of us may not have a clear life mission in front of our eyes. But all of us can join Mike in his revitalized journey. Your work is your mission. Engage in it with all your heart and mind and strength. Do it as for the Lord.

Use the following questions to arrive at your mission statement, if you don't already have one. Remember that it's a living statement. As you gain clarity, go ahead and fine-tune it!

1. Give thanks for what you have achieved.
  - Review your Journey @ Work and Resume Prayer Summary. Mark the top 3 achievements in your career so far. Why?
2. Inventory your skills and talents.
3. What do you do best?
4. What are the greatest needs of your customers/clients, employer and coworkers?
5. How can you best serve these people?
6. How would you introduce yourself to potential employers/clients?

Now rewrite this into your mission statement:
